

32th Meeting of the Japan OLED Forum Call for papers

July 1st (Thursday), 2nd (Friday), 2021
Venue: Online (live format)

1. Aim of the Meeting:

Through the gathering of specialists in the field of OLED science and technology for thorough discussion and debate, the 30th Meeting of the Japan OLED Forum aims to advance the further development of the science, applied research, and practical use of OLEDs. This Meeting aims to build a common base for OLED-related science and technology while at the same time educating talented researchers and engineers through presentation and discussion of recent research and developments regarding OLEDs, create a common venue for industrial and academic cooperation through nationwide participation, and encourage the research development and business development of OLED displays and lighting by inspiring and guiding its participants toward realizing the future of OLEDs. With these aims in mind, presentations and in-depth discussions will be held regarding the fundamental research of OLEDs and the development of high-value OLED products. Please actively participate in and contribute to this Meeting.
