

The 42nd Meeting of the Japan OLED Forum
Call for papers

June 25th (Thursday), 26th (Friday), 2026
Venue: Tokyo International Exchange Center (Tokyo)

1. Aim of the Meeting:

Through the gathering of specialists in the field of OLED science and technology for thorough discussion and debate, the 42nd Meeting of the Japan OLED Forum aims to advance the further development of the science, applied research, and practical use of OLEDs. This Meeting aims to build a common base for OLED-related science and technology while at the same time educating talented researchers and engineers through presentation and discussion of recent research and developments regarding OLEDs, create a common venue for industrial and academic cooperation through nationwide participation, and encourage the research development and business development of OLED displays and lighting by inspiring and guiding its participants toward realizing the future of OLEDs. With these aims in mind, presentations and in-depth discussions will be held regarding the fundamental research of OLEDs and the development of high-value OLED products.

We will also welcome you to the Banquet with special hospitality. "Author interviews" will be held at the venue of the social event, providing a rare opportunity to talk directly with the speakers. We sincerely hope that many of you will join us.

[Award commemorative lecture]

The 19th Japan OLED Forum Outstanding Achievement Award

[General lecture]

- ① General oral presentation (presentation time: 15 minutes for lectures, 5 minutes for questions and answers)
- ② Short oral presentations (presentation time: 5 minutes without questions and answers)
- ③ Student oral presentations (presentation time: 10 minutes for lecture, 5 minutes for questions and answers)

[Poster Discussion]

In each case, after the lecture, a “poster discussion” will be set up as a place for presenters to discuss with the participants.

[Corporate Exhibition]

There will be a corporate exhibition booth.

[Banquet]

Banquet will be held after the meeting on Day 1.

At the event, we will provide opportunities for author interviews with the professors who delivered the commemorative and special lectures. This will create a space for deeper discussions, research exchange, and dialogue that can lead to industry-academia collaboration—aspects that could not be fully addressed during the presentation and Q&A sessions.

6. Technical fields

Various OLED-related technologies and applications

- ① Materials science
- ② Devices
- ③ Simulations
- ④ Displays
- ⑤ Process technology
- ⑥ Reliability
- ⑦ Evaluation technology
- ⑧ Applications, etc.

7. Registration

- ① Participants (presenters, audience members) must be regular members of the Society or student members. If you are not a member, please follow the “Member Registration” on the homepage of the Society to complete the membership registration procedure.

② Please apply for participation from the "42nd regular meeting application form" described on the homepage , we will automatically reply to the reception by e-mail. 8. Submission outline for general presentations

8.1 Submission requirements: Contributors must be regular members or student members of the Forum.

8.2 Student Oral Presentations

We have a student oral presentation slot to provide educational support for students who wish to pursue this field of research. Through oral presentations, Q&A sessions, and poster discussions, we hope that students will reconfirm the position of their own research and increase their motivation by organizing the background, objectives, results, and issues of their research from an educational perspective..

8.3 Submission deadline: Friday, April 17

8.4 Please post from the "42nd Regular Meeting Posting Site" described in the notice on the Japan OLED Forum.

8.5 Manuscript

Please submit a 2 page A4 version manuscript (including figures and tables) as a PDF file. If a dissertation is accepted, the manuscript will be printed in black and white and the proceedings will be published. The submitted data will also be made available to regular members and student members on the web. Manuscripts and lectures will be in Japanese in principle. In addition, the abstract part of the manuscript will be published on the web at the same time as the program is released (after Tuesday, May 26), and the entire manuscript will be published on the web for one month from Thursday, June 18.

8.6 Selection of abstracts

The Forum adopts a peer review system for selecting abstracts based on the following criteria. If the content of an abstract is not in accordance with the purpose of the Forum, it might not be selected. Submissions specifying short oral presentations and student oral presentations will also be accepted. Both the general and short oral presentations and student oral presentations will be part of the poster discussion.

- ①Originality of the thesis is not required.
- ②Abstract content shall be able to withstand discussion at the Forum and be reproducible.
- ③Based on the review, abstracts will be selected as either general oral presentations or short oral presentations or student oral presentations or rejected.

8.7 Outstanding Presentation Award

The Japan OLED Forum Outstanding Presentation Award is given to the member who displays excellence in the general presentations during the Meetings in autumn and spring. The award and a research scholarship (¥200,000) are presented to the best speaker under 35 years of age. In addition, the "Student Presentation Encouragement Award" will be given to the student who makes an outstanding presentation among the student oral presentations. Please see the Awards page for details.
