The 43rd Meeting of the Japan OLED Forum
Call for papers

November 12th (Thursday), 13th (Friday), 2026
Venue: Fukuoka Civic Hall (Fukuoka)

1. Aim of the Meeting:

Through the gathering of specialists in the field of OLED science and technology for thorough discussion and debate, the 43rd Meeting of the Japan OLED Forum aims to advance the further development of the science, applied research, and practical use of OLEDs. This Meeting aims to build a common base for OLED-related science and technology while at the same time educating talented researchers and engineers through presentation and discussion of recent research and developments regarding OLEDs, create a common venue for industrial and academic cooperation through nationwide participation, and encourage the research development and business development of OLED displays and lighting by inspiring and guiding its participants toward realizing the future of OLEDs. With these aims in mind, presentations and in-depth discussions will be held regarding the fundamental research of OLEDs and the development of high-value OLED products.

We will also welcome you to the Banquet with special hospitality. "Author interviews" will be held at the venue of the social event, providing a rare opportunity to talk directly with the speakers. We sincerely hope that many of you will join us.

[Special lecture]

・「Recent Progress in Inkjet-printed EL-QD Display」
／Samsung Display, CTO 直属　Corporate Vice President　田中 正信 氏

・「TADF：機構解明から高性能 OLED まで」
／九州大学　最先端有機光エレクトロニクス研究センター（OPERA） 教授
安達 千波矢 氏

[Special session] ≪TADF の最新展開と産業化動向≫

・「高色度化に向けた高性能 Hyperfluorescence™技術の開発と展開」
／株式会社 Kyulux　CTO　川並 寛幸 氏

・「多重共鳴材料の最近の進展」
／京都大学　大学院理学研究科　教授　畠山 琢次 氏

[General presentation]

①General oral presentation (presentation time: 15 minutes for lectures, 5 minutes for questions and answers)

②Short oral presentations (presentation time: 5 minutes without questions and answers)

③Student oral presentations (presentation time: 10 minutes for lecture, 5 minutes for questions and answers)

[Poster Discussion]

In each case, after the lecture, a “poster discussion” will be set up as a place for presenters to discuss with the participants.

[Corporate Exhibition]

There will be a corporate exhibition booth.

[Banquet]

Banquet will be held after the meeting on Day 1.

At the event, we will provide opportunities for author interviews with the professors who delivered the commemorative and special lectures. This will create a space for deeper discussions, research exchange, and dialogue that can lead to industry-academia collaboration—aspects that could not be fully addressed during the presentation and Q&A sessions.

6. Technical fields

6.1 Various OLED-related technologies and applications

① Materials science ② Devices ③ Simulations ④ Displays ⑤ Process technology ⑥ Reliability ⑦ Evaluation technology ⑧ Applications, etc.

6.2 New technologies and applications leading to the creation of new industries

Optical conversion systems, flexible devices, organic sensors, solar cells, photonics-electronics convergence, etc.

7. Registration

① Participants (presenters, audience members) must be regular members of the Society or student members. If you are not a member, please follow the “Member Registration” on the homepage of the Society to complete the membership registration procedure.

② Please apply for participation from the "43rd regular meeting application form" described on the homepage; we will automatically reply to the reception by e-mail. ④Regarding measures to prevent infection by the new type of coronavirus, wearing a mask and disinfecting your hands are left to your personal judgment. If you are not feeling well, please consider participation at your own discretion to prevent infection. Please note that the measures taken may be subject to change depending on the infection situation and government policy. We ask for your understanding.

8. Submission outline for general presentations

8.1 Submission requirements: Contributors must be regular members or student members of the Forum.

8.2 Student Oral Presentations
We have a student oral presentation slot to provide educational support for students who wish to pursue this field of research. Through oral presentations, Q&A sessions, and poster discussions, we hope that students will reconfirm the position of their own research and increase their motivation by organizing the background, objectives, results, and issues of their research from an educational perspective.

8.3 Submission deadline: Thursday, September 17

8.4 Please post from the "43rd Regular Meeting Posting Site" described in the notice on the Japan OLED Forum.

8.5 Manuscript
Please submit a 2 page A4 version manuscript (including figures and tables) as a PDF file. If a paper is accepted, the manuscript will be printed in black and white and the proceedings will be published. The submitted data will also be made available to regular members and student members on the web. Manuscripts and lectures will be in Japanese in principle. In addition, the abstract part of the manuscript will be published on the web at the same time as the program is released (after Friday, October 9), and the entire manuscript will be opened on the web for one month from Thursday, November 5.

8.6 Selection of abstracts
The Forum adopts a peer review system for selecting abstracts based on the following criteria. If the content of an abstract is not in accordance with the purpose of the Forum, it might not be selected. Submissions specifying short oral presentations and student oral presentations will also be accepted. Both the general and short oral presentations and student oral presentations will be part of the poster discussion.
①Originality of the thesis is not required.
②Abstract content is able to be discussed at the Forum and be reproducible.

③Based on the review, abstracts will be selected as either general oral presentations or short oral presentations or student oral presentations or rejected.

8.7 Outstanding Presentation Award

The Japan OLED Forum Outstanding Presentation Award is given to the member who performs excellence in the general and short presentations during the Meetings in autumn and spring. The award and a research scholarship (¥200,000) are presented to the best speaker under 35 years of age. In addition, the "Student Presentation Encouragement Award" will be given to the student who performs an outstanding presentation among the student oral presentations. Please see the Awards page in the Forum website for details.

8.8 Other

①An automatic reply will be sent by email after registration is received. In the case that no reply is received after registration, please inquire at the contact address below.

②Notification of acceptance of the dissertation will be sent by e-mail by Thursday, October 8.

③Speakers should also register for the Meeting in the same manner as non-speakers.

9. Handling of information

9.1 Handling of abstracts

①Information in the Proceedings is opened when it is made available on the web.

②The ownership and use of copyright included in the proceedings follow the rules of the Copyright Regulations in Japan OLED Forum.

③The author has responsibility for the content of the abstract and the presentation.

④Changes to abstracts after the submission deadline and withdrawal of presentations are not permitted.

9.2 Handling of information inside the meeting venue

①Audio recording, video recording, and photography inside the meeting venue are strictly prohibited.

②The contents of the presentations, question and answer sessions, and discussions are not recorded by the host and cannot be used as evidence in determining intellectual property rights. Participants are allowed to speak freely, and a lively discussion is expected.
